CONSULTING SERVICES

ISO CERTIFICATIONS

Certvalue provides expert guidance and support for organizations seeking ISO certifications. Their consultants help organizations navigate the complexities of various ISO standards such as ISO 9001 (Quality Management System), ISO 14001 (Environmental Management System), ISO 27001 (Information Security Management System), and more. They assist with gap analysis, documentation, implementation, internal audits, and readiness assessments to ensure a smooth certification process.

Certvalue assists organizations in obtaining product certifications required to meet regulatory standards and gain market acceptance. They offer services such as CE marking, which signifies compliance with European Union directives, RoHS certification for adherence to hazardous substance restrictions, BIFMA certification for furniture manufacturers, and GMP certification for industries like pharmaceuticals and food products. Certvalue's consultants provide guidance on testing, documentation, and compliance with relevant standards.

PRODUCT CERTIFICATION

OTHER INTERNATIONAL CERTIFICATIONS

Other International Certification Consulting: Certvalue extends its consulting services to other international certifications and standards. They offer support for HACCP certification, which ensures food safety management, GDPR compliance for data protection, OHSAS 18001 for occupational health and safety, Six Sigma and Lean Manufacturing methodologies for process improvement, and ITIL for IT service management. Certvalue's consultants tailor their approach to each certification, assisting organizations in achieving compliance and improved business practices.

THIRD PARTY AUDITS

Third-party audits are an essential component of ensuring compliance, quality, and adherence to standards in various industries.

Third-party audits are independent assessments conducted by external organizations or auditing firms that have no direct interest in the audited entity. These audits provide an objective evaluation of processes, practices, systems, and compliance with standards or regulations. The purpose of third-party audits is to verify and validate the organization's claims and provide an unbiased assessment of its operations.
